

Maurice Says:

“Consumerism has become the new salvation story for our children and youth. Fulfillment comes when you have newer, bigger, and better stuff. Perhaps it is time for parents in the church to meet and talk about this.”

Gameshow: Wheel of Fortune

Category: “Children, money, and ‘stuff.’”

Prodigal Sons & Material Girls: How Not to Be Your Child's ATM

by Nathan Dungan.

Part exposé and part survival guide, this book addresses the nagging issue faced by many parents – Why do kids have such unrealistic expectations about money? “Share-Save-Spend” are the elements that help children break free from society’s ingrained materialism. Available for loan at MC Canada Resource Centre.

Overturning the Tables: Consumerism, Children and the Church

by Julie Kinkaid. This book reveals how even the most sophisticated shoppers are unaware of the degree to which marketing messages have infiltrated every aspect of their lives, and have especially targeted and won over the youngsters – directing their behaviour as well as their spending practices. Available at MC Canada Resource Centre.

From Copenhagen Politics to Ecological Spirituality

The Green Psalter: Resources for an Ecological Spirituality

by Arthur Walker-Jones.

Ecological theologians often cite biblical themes of “dominion” over the land as contributing to our present environmental crisis. The author explores important metaphors in the Psalms for earth, the environment, and living things.

Close to Home

Close to Home Pamphlets

Pornography and gambling are the latest in the series of 13 pamphlets (with free study guides) for elders, deacons and pastoral care teams.

Faith Exploration

Via: Exploring the Way of Christ is a resource for those interested in finding ways to welcome new Christians or those exploring Christian faith into their congregations. The study is based on hospitality and conversation, with an invitation to explore what it means to be part of a Christian community. Available from Mennonite Publishing Network.
